Understanding sign language

► Pilot program begins to fix mixed signals ► T's sign system confusing to many riders ► T accessibility official says signage not 'doing its job'

The MBTA is launching a pilot program at several stations to fix the dilapidated and unorganized signage that is supposed to guide passengers to the proper platforms and trains.

"You could write a thesis about all the different signs that are up now," said Gary Talbot, the MBTA's assistant general manager for systemwide accessibility.

South Station and Back Bay are the worst, he said. Both stations will be the first to get overhauled with South Station likely to be finished by September.

Talbot said hundreds of varying signs, including hand-drawn cardboard signs placed by T staff, lit-

Settlement terms

- The MBTA hired a nationally known "wayfinding" expert with experience with creating sign systems.
- A "Guide to Access" must be made showing the MBTA's commitment to a safe, reliable and easy to use system that welcomes all riders.
- Changes will include clarity of system and line maps including reduced font sizes or changed typefaces.

He said the T isn't doing its job providing the proper postings.

"One thing goes one way and to get to another station it's something

"All stuff hanging up will come down and a whole new set of signs will take their place."

else," said Talbot. "As a result we end up with 40 different versions of the same thing."

Signs will have color-coding, clearer, uniform symbols and provide easier directions to access points.

"All stuff hanging up will come down and a whole new set of signs will take their place," said Talbot.

Based on rider feedback after the pilot launch, the T will move forward with other stations.

The changes stem from a class action lawsuit that was settled in 2006, requiring the T to develop a standardized navigation system.

In 2002, a group of riders with disabilities filed the suit in federal court accusing the T of discrimination and denying them equal access.

As part of the settlement, $310 million was put in the T's Capital Investment Program to improve services and infrastructure. Signage upgrades and conformity are part of the settlement, but Talbot said there is no dollar figure attached.

Mall flasher sought by cops

NATICK. Natick police are asking for the public's help in locating a man who allegedly exposed himself inside a mall.

Police this week released surveillance photos of the man wanted for the alleged indecent assault.

On Thursday he allegedly exposed himself while inside a store at the Natick Collection.

Police described the man as in his early 20s or 30s.

Anyone with information can call 508-647-9520. METRO

Teen falls off T escalator

CAMBRIDGE. A drunken teen suffered minor injuries after falling off an escalator at the Alewife T station Sunday.

According to reports, 18-year-old Shane O'Malley told police he had been drinking when he took the plunge from atop the moving stairs.

Surveillance released by the MBTA showed O'Malley climbing up the escalator's handrail before he fell.

It was the second incident on a T escalator this month. METRO

Bulger: 'Unfinished business' brought me back to Boston

► Court documents reveal travels of alleged mob boss
► Made trips to Vegas, Mexico ► Due in court today

► Bulger

Even though James "Whitey" Bulger fled authorities who were about to indict him for charges including 19 murders, the alleged fugitive mob boss couldn't stay away from his hometown for long.

Bulger allegedly told FBI agents that during 16 years on the run, he traveled to Boston multiple times.

"According to FBI Supervisory Special Agent Richard Teahan, Bulger admitted traveling (in disguise) to Boston on several occasions while 'armed to the teeth' because he 'had What's next?

Lawyers are due in court this afternoon to argue whether Bulger should get a court-appointed, taxpayer-funded attorney. Bulger's lawyer argued the sealed financial affidavit he submitted shows that he cannot afford a lawyer. Prosecutors asked a judge to force his brothers, including former state senate president William Bulger, to file affidavits about their potential willingness to assist their brother.

to take care of some unfinished business," according to a court document filed by prosecutors yesterday.

The statements were made by Bulger last week as he was being transported from California, where he was arrested, to Boston. But he refused to say when or whom he visited.

The documents said Bulger also told agents that he traveled to Las Vegas "on numerous occasions to play the slots and claimed he won more than he lost."

And he said he traveled to San Diego and crossed the border to Tijuana, Mexico, to purchase medication.

"The foregoing facts are of course significant because they indicate Bulger may have additional assets and/or allies willing to assist him in his current predicament," prosecutors wrote in the court filing.

A spokesman with the FBI in Boston said the agency wouldn't comment on the developments and referred questions to the U.S. Attorney's office.

Can Whitey get a fair trial here?

► Bulger's lawyer says FBI leaks about arrest making fair trial 'close to impossible' for alleged Hub mobster

The leaks to media outlets about alleged statements James "Whitey" Bulger made to federal agents after his arrest are diminishing the already small chance the accused fugitive mob boss had at a fair trial, his temporary lawyer said.

In documents filed yesterday in federal court, Bulger's attorney requested an emergency court order to bar disclosures and further leaks of non-public information by the FBI and other law enforcement agents.

"The jury pool has surely been tainted by the flood of publicity about this case over the last 25 years. If it is now possible — and Mr. Bulger seriously questions whether it will be possible — for Mr. Bulger to receive a fair trial, law enforcement leaks of non-public information must end," attorney Peter Krupp wrote in his filing. The filing begins formally asking the question of whether Bulger, one of the country's most wanted men and possibly the state's most notorious criminal, can be tried by a fair and impartial jury in Boston's federal court.

A spokeswoman for the U.S. attorney's office in Boston said they would not comment.

Bulger was on the run for 16 years after he was indicted on charges that included 19 murders.

There was no determination on the request as of yesterday evening.

Heart Surgeon Hails Breakthrough "Antioxidant" Diabetic Drink As 'A Miracle'!

Naturally improves blood sugar, cholesterol, circulation, energy and more in as little as 2 weeks!

What part of your diabetes would you like to see 'go away'? Are you plagued by weight gain and food cravings, high and low blood sugar levels, mood swings, low energy and constant fatigue, poor circulation, vision problems, frequent pain or aggravating bouts of brain fog or memory lapses?

There is good news and it comes in the form of a 'fizzy', drink called OPC Factor™, which quickly revitalizes your entire body and mind!

Better Blood Sugar

The 'miracle' equals a powerful blend of all natural super antioxidants called oligomeric proanthocyanadins, or OPCs, including powerhouses like grape seed, green tea, pine bark, and red wine extracts, along with lemon bioflavonoids, resveratrol, and 23 naturally occurring vitamins and enzymes.

Heart surgeon and Medical Director of the Heart, Diabetes, and Weight Loss Centers of New York, Dr. Fred Vagnini, MD, FACS confirms that "Antioxidant therapy may slow down the progress of pre-Diabetes."

"OPC Factor™ has helped lower my glucose levels. I sleep better and have more energy and better circulation," says Charles Leavitt.

"Excess sugar in your blood causes oxidation and inflammation which is a contributing factor to slow sticky blood. Additionally, cellular damage leads to eye, kidney, nerve, heart, and blood vessel damage. OPC Factor™ greatly improves blood circulation which promotes faster blood flow; crucial for diabetics," states Dr. Vagnini.

No More Horse Pills to Swallow!

"Pills and tablets have absorption rates as low as 2 to 20 percent," says Dr. Vagnini.

OPC Factor™ is the first 100% organic formula powered by a revolutionary, high-speed Isotonic 'liquid' delivery system. It mimics the body's pH; having the same pH levels as blood and tears, the nutrients readily absorb at amazing rate of 97%!

Results in Minutes!

Actual blood scans taken twenty minutes apart show how OPC Factor™ virtually flushes away free radicals, excess cholesterol crystals and sugar molecules in the bloodstream.

OPC Factor™ works 20-50 times better than traditional antioxidants against oxidation. OPCs enhance insulin's ability to lower blood sugar.

"My doctor said, 'I don't know what you're doing, but keep doing it.'" says Teresa Wood, from WA.

National Health Institute Proves It!

"I can feel it when I drink it. It gives a lot of energy," says Ken Murdock.

A National Institute of Health funded "Double Blind" clinical study published in July, 2008, supports customer claims about energy. For diabetics, energy equals better sleep, moods, and overall balance.

Studies have found that free radicals produce oxidation that disrupts insulin sensitivity.

David Payne, a diabetic from Texas, echoes this, "Since taking OPC Factor, my blood sugar is easier to manage. It boosted my immune system and even helped my cholesterol."

Goodbye Brain Fog!

A surprising benefit of the OPC Factor™ formula is the mental clarity and energy many users experience after just a few days. Why?

"The brain is over 90% fat making it a perfect place for nasty free radicals to hide. They hitch a ride in your blood stream and are transported into your brain where they create havoc. The free radicals affect your brain health by oxidizing the fatty tissue," remarks Dr. Vagnini.

The result of these OPC's penetrating the blood brain barrier and quenching the free radicals is quite astounding. It's possible that after just one week of drinking OPC Factor™ you'll feel more awake and mentally energized. You'll experience sharper thinking and improved concentration.

"I started taking OPC Factor and approximately a week after, I went back and had my blood checked. My blood sugar had dropped from about a 180 down to a 112. I had been having back problems and it seemed to resolve that. I like the taste. The taste is very pleasant. It has helped my overall health. The thing that I've noticed the most is the lack of back pain. I've just felt good this past year," rejoices Doyle Allen, ID.

Receive One Month Free!

Try OPC Factor™ at no risk to you today and receive an absolutely free 30-Day Bonus supply along with a free book, The Aging Antidote. OPC antioxidants are clinically proven to boost your energy, and help restore youthful circulation, cholesterol and blood sugar levels. Gaga sued over Japan charity bracelet sales

► Class action lawsuit claims not all proceeds from rubber wristbands went to victims ► Online comments unhappy about shipping, handling

Pop superstar Lady Gaga has been sued over sales of her wristbands for Japan's earthquake relief efforts in a class action that claims that not all the proceeds went to victims as she had promised.

Michigan legal network 1800LAWFIRM also alleges that Gaga and other companies involved in the sale and marketing of the $5 white and red "We Pray for Japan" wristbands overcharged buyers on shipping costs and "artificially inflated reports of total donations."

"While we commend Lady Gaga for her philanthropic efforts, we want to ensure that claims that 'all proceeds will be donated to Japan's earthquake' are in fact true," said Alyson Oliver, an attorney for 1800LAWFIRM.

"Our intention via this lawsuit is to uncover any improprieties committed by Lady Gaga and appropriate the full donations assumed to the victims in Japan."

Lady Gaga, 25, and her representatives did not return calls for comment yesterday. The federal class action lawsuit was filed in Michigan on Friday while the singer was in Japan for a benefit concert for victims of the March earthquake and tsunami.

Gaga, whose real name is Stefani Germanotta, is reported to have donated about $3 million to Japan disaster relief through sales of the wristbands and other ventures.

The lawsuit claims that a slew of federal racketeering and consumer protection laws were broken by what it calls deceptive advertising and profits from the sale of the bracelets. REUTERS

TIMELINE OF EVENTS. After sustaining nerve damage to his legs in the hit-and-run incident, the 1-year-old cat spent six weeks on a drip. But following a suggestion from a local vet, Mog decided to take on some hydrotherapy, having already clocked in ten sessions at $45 apiece.

Expert: Cats don't fear water

ANIMAL BEHAVIOR. Is the stereotype about cats and water based on fact or fiction? Very much fiction, says Pam Johnson-Bennett, author and specialist on feline behavior. "[But] since they hunt on land for prey such as mice and birds, cats have no need to develop water skills," Johnson-Bennett told Metro. ● METRO/MWN

THE WORD

Metro's Dorothy Robinson shares her take on the world of gossip @dorothyatmetro dorothy.robinson@metro.us

Charlie Sheen: Still a player?

PHOTOS: GETTY IMAGES

► Will Sheen be back on TV sets everywhere?

Pop culture speed bump of two months ago, Charlie Sheen, still seems to have some life in that ol' crack head of his. It was announced yesterday that Sheen has landed a deal for a new sitcom with Lionsgate Television, and RadarOnline.com reports that the bidding war currently happening is huge — even bigger than “Two and a Half Men” money, where Sheen was paid $2 million per episode.

“Charlie has inked a deal to create and star in a new sitcom,” an insider tells RadarOnline. “Charlie’s character will be very similar to the one he played on ‘Two And a Half Men,’ however the show will be a lot racier.”

But not prostitute-loving, anti-Semitic-spewing racy, let’s hope!

TBS is the front-runner to get the rights to the untitled series. And although Sheen won’t be making the kind of cash per episode he did for “Two and a Half Men,” he’s set to get a windfall in the back end of the deal — if he doesn’t implode.

“It’s still a risk but the risk is worth it because so many people are interested in Charlie and his wacky life ... they are bound to watch the show,” the insider says.

A quick note to whomever this “insider” is: “Wacky” is how to define Weird Al Yankovic. “Giant train wreck of intergalactic proportions” is how you describe Charlie Sheen.

A change in the natural order of things

Can it be? Is Jennifer Aniston actually (gasp!) happy with her dating life? It seems so!

She’s enjoying time with new boyfriend Justin Theroux — and is even willing to talk about it. When asked during a “Good Morning America” interview if she’s happy in her personal life, the former “Friends” star responded, “Yes, I’m very happy. I’m extremely lucky, and I’m extremely happy.”

Aniston even brought Theroux along for her “Inside the Actors Studio” taping, according to People magazine. “Whenever there would be a lull, she would just look at him and give him a wink and go back to what she was doing,” an audience member tells the magazine.

LaBeouf's new lady a bit fishy

Five months after meeting at an L.A. karaoke club, Shia LaBeouf says he and stylist girlfriend Karolyn Pho are still going strong — and Pho is even helping broaden his palate. “[Karolyn’s] having me try different things. I was scared of fish, ‘cause of my upbringing, being Jewish. Gefilte can ruin your entire seafood life,” LaBeouf tells the Los Angeles Times. The “Transformers” star is also thinking more mature-

Neil Patrick Harris engaged

Neil Patrick Harris and boyfriend David Burtka took the opportunity of New York legalizing same-sex marriage to reveal that they’re engaged — and have been for some time. “David and I did propose to each other, but over five years ago,” Harris posted on Twitter. “We’ve been wearing engagement rings for ages, waiting for an available date.”

Burtka and Patrick Harris

ly about his February scuffle outside an L.A. area bar. “My mother said, ‘It was below your dignity to engage in it,’” LaBeouf says.

Prince Harry: I'm still single

Prince Harry is clearing up any confusion about his personal life. “I am not seeing anyone at the moment. I’m 100 percent single. I’m working a lot at the moment, so dating and watching TV are the last things I have time for,” he says, according to the Daily Mail. As for specific rumors about Harry getting cozy with Pippa Middleton? “Pippa? Ha! No,” he says.

Jackson's jacket sells for millions

Almost two years after his death, Michael Jackson’s famous red and black leather jacket from the “Thriller” video was snatched up at auction for $1.8 million, according to Popeater. Officials at Julien’s Auction House, which described the jacket as “among the most recognizable and famous garments of the 20th century,” had expected it to bring in up to $400,000, but commodities trader Milton Verret was clearly ready to pay a bit more. The iconic jacket will be used as a fundraising tool for children’s charities.

The roundup of Sunday night's BET Awards

1: Singer Mary J. Blige opened the night with a medley of her hottest hits. Love the ponytail, Mary!

2: Nicki Minaj was pretty in pink on the green carpet. She and Justin Bieber presented the award for Best Male Hip Hop Artist to Kanye West, who was sadly a no-show.

3: New mom Alicia Keys showed off her amazing heels for photographers. Bruno Mars later joined her onstage to perform "A Woman's Worth" during her medley of "Typewriter" and "Fallin'."

4: Actress Meagan Good added a much-needed touch of glamour to the night (Chris Brown came in jean shorts!).

5: Young Stars Award recipient Willow Smith showed off her "Fresh" T-shirt, featuring you-know-who.

6: Nelly, right, along with rapper Diggy Simmons, also displayed an icon on his shirt (this time Muhammad Ali) at a BET after-party.

7: A smug Chris Brown posed with his trophies backstage — he took home four awards including Best R&B Artist and Viewers' Choice.

8: Ne-Yo arrived in style at the Interscope Geffen A&M Records' fifth annual 'Creme Of The Crop' Post BET Awards Dinner Celebration in Beverly Hills.

Getting 'Spoiled' this summer

Who wouldn't want a fast track to all things glamorous? Not Molly Dix, the main character of the new young adult novel "Spoiled." After Molly moves to Hollywood to be with her famous father, she is thrust into a private school where snobs reign. The worst? Brooke Berlin — who happens to be her half-sister.

If it sounds eerily like the plot of a certain movie, authors Jessica Morgan and Heather Cocks assure you it isn't. "We wouldn't say we drew inspirations from 'Mean Girls,' but our project is definitely similar to the central idea of the movie ... the willingness of an individual to give up certain parts of her life," says Morgan.

Her co-author Cocks, adds, "The stories of Brooke and Molly are based heavily on the absence of their mothers and on their superstar father whose attention is in a hundred directions."

Memories and what they entail

► Author Camille Noe Pagan's debut novel, 'The Art of Forgetting,' tackles what happens when a traumatic injury tests the bonds between two best friends

► Camille Noe Pagan, the author of "The Art of Forgetting."

Traumatic brain injury affects thousands of women a year — often with devastating outcomes — but despite its prevalence, TBI doesn't attract too much mainstream attention, a sobering reality that journalist Camille Noe Pagan experienced while writing a magazine story on the prevalence of brain damage and women.

"I interviewed a neurologist who mentioned women are more worried about cellulite or getting enough omega-3 acids, when they should really be worried about brain injury. That stuck with me," she recounts. Pagan turned that bit of information into the compelling hook of her debut novel, "The Art of Forgetting," which follows two tight-knit friends, Julia and Marissa, as they try to come to terms with their new normal after Julia suffers a traumatic brain injury.

"I approached it like a journalist and wrote it like a novelist," says Pagan about the groundwork she had to undertake before writing her first book. "No brain injuries are the same. So I did a lot of medical research and interviewed other neurologists. You'd think it's a freak thing, but it's so surprisingly common."

Pagan says that an unexpected — and welcome — outcome of publishing "The Art of Forgetting" has been meeting brain injury survivors.

"A woman at a recent reading came up to me and told me she was a brain injury survivor. She told me how, like Julia, she looked like the same person she was before, but she's not. I was really moved by that."

A summer guide to city skin care

► New York-based facialist and makeup artist, Mary Schook, tells us how to have great looking skin even when the heat and humidity kicks in

► Don't wear makeup over your sunblock

"The whole point is for the sunscreen to block all of the sun's rays," says Schook, a skin care guru who is the woman beauty editors and models go to for clear, glowing skin. "It should definitely be the last thing you put on your eyes and technically, it should be the last thing to go on your face so that the zinc and titanium can refract the sunlight," she explains. "But use your judgment with the face makeup — and if you do wear foundation with built-in sunscreen, be sure to reapply it every two hours."

► Clean your face midday

"Too many women reapply their makeup throughout the day when it's better to just wipe all of the makeup and oil off with witch hazel and start over," she says. "The witch hazel works because it rebalances the pH balance in your skin which prevents it from getting too oily. If you just pile the makeup on, you'll break out later."

► Keep hair out of your face

Those bangs might look

► Model Joan Smalls expertly nailing summer skin care rule No. 3.

great in the salon, but they could potentially wreak havoc on your forehead later. "Hair products with silicone in them can irritate the face and block pores, which is why it's so important not to wear your hair in your face during summer," she explains. "When the weather heats up, you not only need to think about changing up your skin care regimen, but your hair care products, too."

Politics should not be a career

Career politicians don't know when to exit the stage; and the longer they stay, the easier they can be manipulated and bought by corporations, thereby betraying the citizenry, democracy and the Republic. ANTHONY P. JOHNSON, VIA E-MAIL

The impending paradigm shift

The paradigm for civilization has stayed constant since its inception: The few rule the many; it's inescapable. In a democratic society, this paradigm is balanced by voting. They many elect the few that rule. Now there's a paradigm shift. As the saying goes, the citizenry has "fallen" because we are so "divided." Whether you're a Democrat, Republican or Independent, you can't let conservatives continue this insanity. RICH BRITTLE SR., SOUTH END

Pop culture not nasty enough

RE: "BAD TEACHER" SCORES HIGH MARKS: Thank you for the review of "Bad Teacher." Reviewer Richard Crouse thought

Close, but not quite free yet

The passage of the Marriage Equality Act in New York is a significant civil rights triumph, and it merits jubilation and gratitude. However, true victory can only be claimed when the federal Defense of Marriage Act is eliminated and marriage equality is passed in every state. But thanks to the growing chorus of voices supporting the rights of gay Americans, it may not be long until we celebrate our commitment to equality. DAVID TERHUNE, VIA E-MAIL

Safety net is clearly frayed

RE: "WHEN SOCIAL OUTREACH FAILS": With the rags-to-riches narrative as irrelevant as it's been at any point in our history, and the political right determined to rid the nation of even the most pathetic semblance of a social safety net, is it any wonder that some among the poor find themselves struggling with addiction? DAN EHLKE, VIA E-MAIL

Horoscope

Cancer June 21-July 22. Someone you respect might come to you about doing something you think would be a kindness; but, in reality, it'll turn out to be a favor for you.

Leo July 23-Aug. 22. Your thinking is usually such that it produces ideas that are both practical and progressive, which is likely to happen currently. This time, it might involve one of your club or social activities.

Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. Be alert so that you don't miss something extremely unusual concerning an opportunity that could be meaningful to you materially.

Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. Include others when broadening your range of objectives, because you'll have a better chance at success with more people involved.

Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. A promising endeavor is likely to be put together through a chain of unique circumstances involving several other people. These co-contributors will supply what you lacked.

Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21. You couldn't find a better day to iron out a misunderstanding you recently had with someone dear to you. That other person is equally eager to clear the air.

Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. Take those positive measures to enhance your material well-being, because it's a day where you can move things along to your satisfaction.

Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. There is an excellent possibility that two new people from distant places might enter your life. Both will have a strong, constructive influence on your important affairs.

Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. You should fare much better in an arrangement you initiated, but now leave up to others. They're finally producing what they should have done all along.

Aries March 21-April 19. Don't doubt the wisdom of your decisions, even those you might have to make under pressure at a moment's notice. Your judgment is much keener than you realize.

Taurus April 20-May 20. No, money isn't likely to be dropped in your lap. However, you will get an opportunity to take advantage of a very lucrative opportunity, giving you a much heavier billfold.

Gemini May 21-June 20. Your charm and congeniality comes naturally to you, making you a welcome person to be around. More than one friend will be seeking your company. BERNICE BEDE OSOL

The best of Berlin

► Fifty years since the construction of the Berlin Wall, the city continues to reinvent itself ► The can't-miss museums and must-try food (and one museum dedicated to food)

PHOTOS: GETTY IMAGES

This summer, Berlin marks the 50th anniversary of the construction of the wall that remains, even in fragments, as its most famous landmark/scar. The city is thoroughly modern and architecturally visionary; it has grown up to fill the spaces once marked by that concrete barrier and long since reconnected with the outside world it once strove to keep out.

Fly there

AirBerlin is the first European airline to offer nonstop service from New York's JFK International Airport to Berlin. The daily service launched in May.

Where to ...

VISIT:

Remnants of the Wall remain scattered throughout the city, with a brick outline in the pavement tracing its former path. But perhaps the most effective spot to visit is the block-long stretch of the Wall that runs alongside the Topography of Terror museum (www.topographie.de), which combines two of the darkest pieces in Berlin's history. Located on the grounds of the former Nazi Gestapo and SS headquarters, the site is part archaeological excavation, part memorial and part history museum. For a less grim view of the world, Museum Island (www.smb.museum) offers a grand collection of art and history museums in the middle of the Spree river, at the heart of the city's historically rich and eclectic Mitte district.

EAT:

Further representing the idea of rebirth that thrives throughout the city, Volt restaurant (www.restaurant-volt.de) is a former electrical substation that now serves as the home for chef Matthias Gleiss' elegant, locally sourced take on classic German cuisine. But no visit would be complete without a taste of currywurst, which is available on virtually every street corner. The combo of hot pork sausage and curry ketchup is so ubiquitous as to have merited its own museum (www.currywurstmuseum.de).

Unstoppable force, immovable object

The Red Sox and Phillies open what could be a World Series preview tonight at Citizens Bank Park.

If they're going to make it to that rematch, Boston's bats and Philadelphia's arms will be what get them there.

The three-game interleague series is unique, matching baseball's top offense and its best pitching staff.

The Sox are tops in MLB with 409 runs, 748 hits, 165 doubles, 1,206 total bases, 395 RBIs, a .277 batting average, a .352 OBP and a .799 OPS.

The Phils' pitching staff, meanwhile, leads the bigs with a 3.05 ERA, nine complete games, 11 shutouts, 53 quality starts and 257 runs allowed.

Philadelphia's offense and Boston's pitching have, statistically, at least, been middle of the road. Philly is 16th in runs scored (320), while the Sox rank 17th in ERA (3.97).

Boston, of course, will not have the benefit of a designated hitter, since the series is at a National League ballpark (see below). METRO

It's 'ace' vs. 'ace' tonight

Josh Beckett didn't start on Opening Day for the Red Sox.

Cliff Lee didn't start on Opening Day for the Phillies.

But the starters in tonight's series opener in Philadelphia have both put up ace-like numbers this year.

Beckett is 6-2 with an unreal 1.86 ERA. Lee, meanwhile, is cruising along at 8-5 with a 2.87 ERA of his own. METRO

Interleague forces tough DH choices

► With pitcher batting in NL parks, Big Papi is Big Absent ► No good option for Francona ► Either Ortiz sits more or Gonzalez goes to outfield

Free Papi!

That's the rallying cry around the Red Sox these days, with their resurgent designated hitter pinned to the bench by the inequities of interleague play.

Will there be Philadelphia freedom for David Ortiz tonight? Will Bob Watson and Cesar Cedeño go retro "Bad News Bears" this weekend in Houston, chanting "Let him play"?

After dropping two of three in Pittsburgh without the DH, the Sox are seemingly lost without their Big Binky.

"We build our team around the designated hitter," Kevin Youkilis said. "For us, we're at a disadvantage. A lot."

The rules are the same for all American League teams, and historically Boston has been among baseball's best in interleague play, posting winning road records the past six seasons. So the Papi Panic seems a bit overdone.

But in one sense, the Sox have a very legitimate beef: For only the third time since interleague play began in 1997 — and the first since 2002 — they're scheduled to play all nine of their road NL games consecutively. Three more in Houston this weekend means Ortiz — and his 17 homers and 48 RBIs — is essentially in DL mode, potentially going 11 days without a start.

Manager Terry Francona's only alternative is sitting first baseman Adrian Gonzalez or shifting his MVP candidate to right field for a couple of games, in order to get Ortiz and Gonzalez in the lineup at the same time.

But such a prospect has Red Sox Nation gripped with fear that Gonzalez will step on an outfield landmine in Philly or Houston and blow up the season.

"I'm not happy about David sitting for nine straight games, and I'm also not happy about putting Gonzy in right field," Francona said. "Neither choice is very appealing."

Dodgers file for Chapter 11

The Dodgers' bleak financial situation got even bleaker yesterday, when the team filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection in a Delaware court.

Owner Frank McCourt, a former

Boston developer who lived in a Brookline mansion, said MLB's refusal to approve the Dodgers' $3 billion TV deal with Fox Sports was to blame for the move.

The team will be allowed to use a $150 million loan for daily operations.

LA owes Ramirez $21 million

The Dodgers filed a list of their 40 largest creditors yesterday. No. 1? Old friend Manny Ramirez, who has the team on the hook for $20,992,086.

Ramirez played parts of three seasons for Los Angeles. He hit .322 with 44 home runs and 156 RBIs in 223 games.

The Dodgers are also in debt to a number of other notable players, including outfielder Andruw Jones ($11,075,000), pitcher Hiroki Kuroda ($4,483,516) and infielder Rafael Furcal ($3,725,275).

The White Sox made the list ($3,500,000), as did longtime announcer Vin Scully ($152,778).

Yanks setup man makes his case for All-Star nod

► Robertson

► New York's eighth-inning guy has a sterling 1.15 ERA ► Best season of his career ► But an All-Star?

David Robertson is an unassuming type. His pitches, though, are a lot louder — in catchers' mitts, at least.

Robertson has made a significant case for being included in next month's All-Star game, now that he's the Yankees' bona fide eighth-inning guy with Rafael Soriano and Joba Chamberlain out.

"Robbie has done a tremendous job in the eighth inning in the absence of Joba and Soriano and gotten some big outs, sometimes four or five outs, when we've asked him to do it," manager Joe Girardi said.

Overall, Robertson is 1-0

Robertson has posted an unbelievable 357 ERA+ this season. The stat is scaled to where 100 is the league average; he's at 127 for his career.

with a 1.15 ERA in 31 1/3 innings. During those outings, he's struck out 50 and walked 20, but looking beyond the overall picture and taking a sample of the last month shows a more impressive performance for someone who has yet to see his ERA rise above 2.00 in 2011.

Soriano's last appearance before going on the DL with a sore right elbow was May 13. Since that point, Robertson has allowed one run and nine hits over 18 appearances, spanning a total of 17 1/3 innings.

Robertson's numbers put him in a rare breed among the relief pitching industry, which fluctuates on a yearly basis.

The Alabama native is one of three Yankees with a sub-2.00 ERA — a distinction few teams, and no other in the AL East, can match.

A manic women's Monday

It took less than two brutal hours at Wimbledon yesterday to disprove the theory that Serena and Venus Williams could return to the top at the All England Club after having barely swung their rackets in anger for months.

First, defending champion Serena suffered a humbling 6-3, 7-6 fourth-round loss to Marion Bartoli.

"I lost, but I was able to kind of hang in there and play tough," Serena said after the match. "I can only get better."

"And that can potentially be really scary, because I can only go up from here, and I can just do so much more."

As that news was still being absorbed by a sweltering crowd, five-time champion Venus was summarily dispatched, 6-2, 6-3, by Tsvetana Pironkova.

#4

Fourth-seeded Victoria Azarenka is the highest member of the women's draw still alive. She topped Nadia Petrova, 6-2, 6-2, yesterday.

The Manic Monday carnage in the women's draw was not confined to the American sisters, who had won nine of the last 11 women's singles titles at Wimbledon.

World No. 1 Caroline Wozniacki lost, 1-6, 7-6, 7-5, to Dominika Cibulkova, leaving 2004 champion Maria Sharapova as the clear favorite for the title. The Russian fifth seed overpowered China's Peng Shuai, 6-4, 6-2.

Riders Alert!

When MBTA Management took the second operator off Orange Line Trains they committed to having T personnel on station platforms and to add staff to monitor passenger safety, make sure doors closed correctly and deal with Homeland Security concerns. But the T has failed to meet that commitment to T riders.

Now MBTA management is planning to take the second operator off Red Line Trains and they are proposing the same failed passenger and security plan they tried on the Orange line. Homeland Security told T riders to speak out when we saw safety concerns. Now is the time to speak out against the T's Orange and Red Line safety and security failures.

As passengers and fare-payers you need to demand that budget cuts don't threaten your safety.

With everything from continued terror threats on public transportation to late night violent crime, passengers need guards to spot dangerous packages left in the back of a group of MBTA train cars or to take action when criminals target riders late in the evening.
